Challenges and Opportunities

Organising the Triannual Meetings and Annual Conference of the IAIS, the hosting supervisory authority is expected to meet high professional challenges.

As an additional aspect the host country – its cultural, economic and historical background accompanied by the status of the insurance sector and the supervisory profession in Hungary – receives respectable attention.

On the other hand, the Conference with the elaboration of new supervisory tools provides a great opportunity to help the supervisory authorities to adapt to the new market innovations and to develop further integrated and harmonised global supervisory practices.

Besides this is a good forum for all supervisors from all over the world to meet and exchange views and information in formal and informal ways on the highlighted issues of the present.

I believe that the Conference in October 2008 gives all the attendees useful professional experiences and good memory of social events.
